Welcome to the 2026 edition of Rochester Cyclocross – two days of UCI Men’s and Women’s elite and Junior Men’s and Women’s racing (C1 Saturday & C2 Sunday) and plenty of amateur categories as well.

Genesee Valley Park is Monroe County’s largest park, is located about 3 miles from the City of Rochester and was designed by famed landscape architect Frederick Law Olmstead. Olmstead’s other great works include New York City’s Central Park. With the park’s rolling landscape and old-growth trees, this park has gorgeous natural terrain perfect for our international-caliber course. Conveniently located within the city limits and just outside of the campus of the University of Rochester - it’s minutes from the airport, restaurants, shopping, hotels and bike paths.

Our course is challenging and diverse and the venue provides an excellent host location for a UCI level event – with spectator and amateur parking right next to the course. For big teams with vehicles and rigs to display, there is a dedicated, level-ground, parking lot area in the center of our venue – right next to the finish line. Facilities both on course and off will be to everyone’s liking as well. We also provide a “club row” for amateur riders/teams needing space for their team tents. Please note that the above spaces are available at an additional cost.

Each lap of the course contains approximately 139 feet of vertical climbing per lap. The race course includes 1 man-made barrier/planks set, one natural barrier obliging riders to dismount their bikes, multiple run-ups, a flyover and a Belgian staircase. The double-sided pit is located at mid-point on the course and is clearly labeled.

Overall, the course contains a variety of terrains including grass covered slopes, a section of paved path that is 3 meters wide, as well as dirt sections. The course winds through a section of old growth evergreens and uses numerous natural features as technical challenges.

The course is designed in a “U” formation to accomplish simple access to Registration/EVENT HQ and easy spectator flow while having as few crosswalks as possible.

The Start section is separate from the race course and is only used for the start of each race. The start is located by the finish line.
